

Dear Officer,

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for embarking on a honeymoon journey with my girlfriend to explore the captivating destinations of Salt Lake City, Jackson Hole, Grand Teton, and Yellowstone. Prior to this trip, we have visited Italy, Japan, and Singapore together, where we enjoyed immersing ourselves in diverse cultures and exploring the unique natural wonders of each destination.

As this is a private trip rather than a business trip, I am unable to provide an invitation letter or the detailed information about products/services I will be studying or purchasing. However, I have attached my detailed travel itinerary, which highlights my keen interest in experiencing the region's natural wonders, and learning about its rich history and culture, inspired by the compelling narrative of the popular TV show "Yellowstone."

As a Test & Validation Engineer at Synopsys Semiconductor Technology (Shanghai) Co. Ltd, an American semiconductor company headquartered in Sunnyvale, California, that focuses on silicon design and verification, and silicon intellectual property. In my role, I am responsible for testing and validating the quality of our products to ensure their reliability and performance.

For a more detailed overview of my work experience, educational background, and professional achievements, please refer to my attached CV. I trust that the information provided in my CV, travel itinerary, and professional credentials will demonstrate my commitment to responsible tourism during my visit to these extraordinary destinations.

Thank you for considering my application, and I look forward to the opportunity to explore these breathtaking locations.

Best Regards,

Jie
